

October 1806

The Dark Leaf has a new captain in charge today, a young one but a great one I'm sure of it. A true comrade, a brother, a few years older than me. I couldn't see anybody else than Hershel to lead the ship, and it's with great respect and proud that I accepted to be his second in command. I Erat autem dritatis eius hoc quoque indicium nec obscurum nec latens, quod ludicris cruentis delectabatur et in circo sex ~~but~~ septem aliquotiens vetitis ~~certaminibus~~ pugilum vicissim ~~see~~ concidentium perfusorumque.

Before I realised, his son had used the key on him. I couldn't believe it when he talked with the tense and the knowledge of his father. I drank as much as I could, but the vision stayed even after his funerals.

This ritual room and everything connected to it need to be destroyed. But first, as the last soul he dared to accept in his home, as the last person that can be called his friends, I need to stop him,

AT ALL COSTS.

April 18WD

Hershel asked me this morning to accompany him for a new trip. I can't refuse the proposition. The sea calls me even after all those years. I can see that he knows what he wants and where he wants to go. He has the assurance of a messiah that received a vision. The Vestibulum ullamcorper tristique facilisis. He showed me the underground below
Marsden Fall and some of the secrets it kept for ages. I didn't mind it at first, if it helped us become rich how bad could it be.
I was a fool!!! They are the devil's work.
So many rooms and he wants to add more.
Last week he showed me the last one he dig with the help of his strange servants. It's a room hidden behind the shipyard

to this room. He was in his last days I thought of seeing him so old and exhausted. The room was totally unrecognisable, a door to hell.

God pardons him for what he did and me for what I will do. Hershel found something not for humans in our ultimate trips. I didn't mind it at first, but what he did was not something I can't
